There are not enough words to express all the memories that Wynell and I shared living on the same street, working at the school and church together, watching her boys grow up on the street and John tending his garden . Like many neighbors, we didn't visit as much as I would have liked. In fact, for weeks, I've been thinking I want to go see Wynell....but didn't go. I guess a lot of us are like that. My heart goes out to John, the boys and their families. Love you all even if I don't get to see you. You are family. Sorry I won't get to the visitation or the funeral . Tom plans on being there. With Showers of blessings from above, I send my love to each of you. Marilyn “ Ms. Webb leaves a legacy to thousands of students who not only feared but revered her. She was a master of grammar and eloquent speech. I was fortunate enough to have her as my junior English teacher and then go on as her student teacher. I am sure that she served as my muse for my great love of grammar and writing. She was patient and kind with me as she mentored and molded me into the high school teacher who would model her example of fairness and follow through. She continues to live on through her former students who have made a career in education and who understand the power of the written word.

“ Aunt Nell was such a sweet and kind lady, a peacemaker. I loved the stories she and her siblings shared with their kids. My favorite was daddy and Uncle Weldon howling outside under the window while she was made to practice the piano. Of course Granny got on to them when Aunt Nell cried. I remember daddy and Uncle Weldon laughing many times telling it. The practice paid off and she played for many years. My dad sure loved his little sister! I am sorry for your loss Uncle John, Bruce, Tim and family. I am glad the pain is past. Much love, Donna

“ She was a lifetime friend of mine, whose friendship I treasured and she knew that. We had common interests that increased in those venues as we matured. I loved her dearly, and I grieve her death. She felt about teaching students as I did, and that view and drive was something we always felt strongly about. Also our having a good a viable local library was another goal that we both shared. It was a closeness that began when we were in college and we commuted together for a year. I will miss her so much; but I feel such a great sympathy for her husband and children, because as much as I miss her will not measure any depth to the amount that they will grieve and miss her. I will be praying for them.
