“ My sister, my first best friend... As I begin to open the pages of photo albums, a flood of memories swept over my heart, including the many Birthday celebrations. The happy times brought a smile to my face with each passing photo, as I longed to embrace you one more time. I remember the time when I was losing my baby teeth earlier than you and you wanted to borrow some of mine to put under your pillow, so the tooth fairy would stop and visit you! The tooth fairy must have gotten a little confused, we found money scattered all over Grandma Gooch's house the following morning. Also, I found some very dear photos of you & I growing up and sharing the celebration of marriages. Oh my..I miss you so much! As I continue to turn the many pages of photo albums I came across you & I embracing the joyous occasion with the birth of our babies. And then our babies getting married, which adding so much more love to our happy family. And life got much more sweeter when those precious grand-babies came into the world. I'm going to miss you and all your sassy ways! I will always cherish our precious memories forever. Goodbye for now sister, until we meet again on the other side.
