“ Mrs Ethel Mae was a precious Senior Saint from my Sunday School Class at First Baptist Church. I spent precious time visiting her at her home through the years God have me with her, just listening and learning the wisdom God had given her in her lifetime. We would sometimes just talk about life however most of the time it would end with us reading from the Bible. And always ending in prayer. I remember helping her move in the home that Mrs. Dixie had lived in. She was so pleased to be able to live in the home her sweet friend had lived. Mrs Dixie was also a precious saint I will forever miss. These ladies enriched my love and relationship with the Lord and planted a seed in me for loving on widows and those of the Senior age. There is so much wisdom and strength you can gain from spending quality time with those who have truly lived life. I know she is in Heaven praising, singing and worshiping with all those that have gone before her. Her love for the Lord was absolutely beautiful and infectious. How blessed I was to have know her, loved her and was loved by her. Rest well sweet friend. I love you and will see you again. ❤️😭🙏
