“ I don't know if this will get to the family since it's been two years since their mother died, but Stan and Jana lived upstairs from my parents, Ray and Betty Harralson, in Shreveport, Louisiana. Our families went to church together. My parents were younger (I was a year old) and they tended to take their faith with less than devout attention. My father was a new convert. Stan and Jana were very hospitable to my parents and at some point had a good "heart to heart" as a mentor couple to my parents. My parents made their faith a priority and from that point on were devout in their tithing. It is quite a story where this mentoring rippled out but the short version is there was a missionary in China who converted many students because of the initial step Stan and Jana took to mentor my parents. I would love to share the in-between ripples that were sent out. Just know your parents were instrumental in spreading the gospel to China. Donna Millican Harralson

Hi Donna. Stanley and Jana were my grandparents. I love this story. My mom has passed away but I will make sure my aunt Diane reads this. Thank you.

“ I am sorry to hear about Jana's death. She and her family were friends with my mother and grandmother for many years. Jana was a Christian and "let her light shine" as an a child of God through out her life.
