“ My Mother lived across the street from Harold and Lowetta Baade for many years. During that time, my mother and the Baade family formed a true friendship consisting of shared love, compassion and caring. After my mother passed last August, and her home was being emptied and cleaned, Harold was the first to show up ready to lend a helping hand. He arrived with caulk, a hammer, a drill and a lot of "elbow grease" ready to go to work. Harold was a living example of "love thy neighbor"...a true friend, and loving neighbor to my mother, even after her passing. There are not too many neighbors like Harold anymore; he will be missed.

In Sympathy,
Kathleen Lynch
