“ There are no words to express how much Jennifer will be missed. I'm still in shock of it all. She was such a beautiful person inside and out. I'm so glad I had the pleasure to call her a friend. She left behind a legacy, and I know she served God's purpose for her life. We will see her again one day. She's rejoicing with our Lord and Savior now, pain and cancer free. Rest in peace sweet Jennifer. You will be missed! Love you!

“ Today we experience the loss of a beautiful human being. You're no longer in pain. You've met your Creator and Savior face to face and as He welcomes you with open arms - may you experience the rest and peace you so longed to experince on earth. We'll see you again, Jennifer. We'll see you again, babygirl. Until then, we love you and we promise to take care of your three little angels. We love you!

“ I have loved Jennifer since I met Jennifer. I remember when Ethan started coming to our Sunday school class. I remember that it didn't take long before Ashton decided that he wanted to attend with his big brother...ok, like the very next Sunday! Jennifer was concerned that he wouldn't fit in, but, with our encouragement, she gave him the opportunity to try. It turned out to be a blessing for us all. I don't think it is possible to remember Jennifer without remembering her smile and her kind and loving disposition...never wavering. I remember when Landon was born and Rhea (my grandgirl) was born, too. Until October of this year, they were our youngest members! And, they were so taken with each other...still are. I remember Ashton's terrific birthday party at the Children's Science/Discovery Place. Jennifer had everything prepared just right. And, her brother joined her on the stage and helped Ashton open every present and Ashton repeated the name of EVERY present he opened and it was amazing. I want to see Jennifer at church, this Sunday, and all of this to have been a bad dream. But, it is not a bad dream. It is the reality we will feel passionately and endure, together. And we will NEVER forget this amazing woman - daughter, mother, sister, wife, and friend: this woman who has taught us so much about perseverance and hope, and about dignity and even about thankfulness for the life we do have for as long as we are blessed to have it. We love you, Jennifer, and we love your beautiful family, forever. I miss you, greatly.

“ I have only known Jennifer for a few months but I was introduced to her through the hand of the Lord himself. She had such a gentle, sweet spirit. I know she is with our Lord Jesus and that she is shouting and singing and free from pain and I look forward to Sunday meeting her on the other side in glory. My prayers and love go out for her loved ones, her, children, and her husband Ben.
