“ I knew Lindsey, we were in the same grade and grew up in Tatum. Her mom, was the Library teacher and I remember always thinking how nice of a lady and how nice of a friend Lindsey was. Like, truly genuinely just pure hearted and always happy. Thoroughly, a beautiful person inside and out..
Words are failing to convey just how awesome Lindsey was. I think of her often. She was so brave and strong and seemingly even more so, after her diagnosis. They say the good die young, as I get older-the more I believe it. See you again one day Lindsey! And may your faith and testimony guide others closer to the Lord, our God.

“ To Lindsey's family and friends: I am so sorry for your loss. I knew her, but not as well as I wish I did, but I was blessed to know her. She was a wonderful, beautiful person inside and out. To know her was to love her. When she walked in the room she lit it up. From the first moment you met her, she was wonderful, she was Lindsey. We are now missing an angel on earth but I know she is in Heaven smiling and no longer in pain. I know that still isn't comforting. My heart aches so much for Lindsey's family and friends that knew her so well. I am so sorry you are hurting, but knowing her, knowing she was alive and knowing what an inspiration she was, all of her life, not just in the end, she touched so many people and didn't know it. Thank God we had her even if it was only for a short while. God bless you all and I hope you have peace. I want to thank you for her; her family and friends that made HER unique, beautiful and unforgettable. Sincerely, Samantha Davidson

“ Rest in Peace Ms. Lindsey. I am a member of the Circle Bar Church so I was blessed and touched to here your testimony via internet. My Daughter Tonya Cash was also diagnosed with a very rare aggressive form of cancer . She passed in February at the age of 38. I know the battle you fought and I also know that you won that battle. My Tonya was a single mother of 3. And she felt the same feelings and went thru the same agonizing pain. but just as God does his work. She also let go and let God as well as the rest of her family and I. Without Jesus in our lives everyday we would not be able to move on. I know you never met me but I do know the Lord is holding another Precious Angel in his arms.

“ My condolences to the family of this beautiful girl! So sad to lose a beloved family member, especially at such a young age. She is now at peace and her suffering is over. I know how difficult it is to understand God's choosing to take people home so early in life; for it is not our place to question God's will. However, with His love, guidance, and grace, we will overcome our sorrows. My thoughts and prayers with all family and friends who knew her! Blessed Be!

“ Dale,I cannot imagine what you are going through. It doesn't seem right for a father to live longer than his child. But hopefully you find some comfort in knowing that you will someday be reunited with your lovely Lindsey. When that time comes, all of this present life will become like a vapor and you will enter the real life after life. We should not rush through this life or wish it gone because it has purpose. But it is very hard to carry on sometimes, even if you know the purpose. I will be praying for you and your family.

“ Lindsey, You will never know the impact you made on my life. The times we called, texted each other and searching for each other to see if we were at church. I will miss you tremendously but I know you are looking down on us from Heaven and I smile knowing that you have long beautiful hair again. I will never forget you. I love you and MISS YOU. I miss you but I know that you are no longer suffering with that stupid "c" word. You are watching over us all and will become a guardian angel to probably everyone. I'll see you one day and we can laugh and see each other face to face again. I love you and Miss you sweetness. Tell Jesus I said Hi. Until we meet again, I'll ne thinking of you every day. I love you gorgeous!
