“ My condolences. Wayne Holtfreter LOST ANOTHER BROTHER! heard today, that we have lost another Someone I can say, I really didn't know But to me, he was still no less my brother Born together, in war a long time ago So to you, his grieving family I know there's nothing, I could say Although I wish, words were enough To take your pain away So instead I offer, you my prayers Because it's, all I know to do And I will ask, my Lord my God To take good care of you I'll ask him too, to give you strength And to hold you, when you cry I'll ask him for, that little bit more Understanding, to help you get by And I will pray, he'll give you peace As you weather, this life's storm I'll ask him that, you always have A home, that's safe and warm But most of all, I'll pray you'll know Your loved one, finally is ok Wrapped in Gods, mercy and love And waiting, for those days Yes waiting for, those appointed times When your family and those he loved Will be reunited once again With him, in heaven up above By Wayne Holtfreter (AJ) 134th Qm Co (POL line haul) 1968
