“ Melissa, and family, how hard it is to express what a beautiful person our robin was, when we were together we talked of day passed when you and Lynn were best friends, she drew pencil sketches of both girls that I have cherished over the years..
She was in pain, but never complained, she was my sister in Christ, so I will see her again. I love you Robin, see you soon!!

“ Sure will look forward to heaven even more now that Robin has moved there. Never before nor ever again will I have a friend like her. We could go without talking to each other for months but pick right up like it was last week. She could tell me just the punch line of a joke we'd heard in the 70's & we'd laugh for a full 5 minutes!! I love all her artwork & could never convince her how extremely talented she was. She was very humble about her art & her beauty. God certainly blessed my life by having our lives cross paths so many years ago. She probably had a lot of friends like me but I've only had one friend in my whole life like her & she will always live in my heart & thoughts.

“ Where to begin? You showed love and gave me confidence. You were a friend, a mom, a sister, a confidant, a teacher, an awesome artist and not just with pencil but with life. You taught me how to see and feel the beauty of Gods world. Autumns changing colors in east Texas will forever live in my heart with memories of you driving that old car with all those magnets, singing all genres of music at the top of our lungs. How you spent endless hours making the perfect cassette tape from your vinyls. I love you my dear dear friend. I know your still with me but forgive me for being a little selfish to just want for one more day. Rest my sweet friend in knowing how much your love spread throughout this world. PRESS!
