“ My Cousin Scott and I were true friends from an early age of around 8 years of age. We lived not but a few blocks from each other in Athens and always spent time at each others house. We had our own little club that between my brothers and his, amounted to about 8 to 10 juveniles on bicycles that rode all around North Athens. We sometimes got into a little trouble because we didn't understand what a curfew was and the local city cops would send us home for riding on the square, at night. We would say we were going home but as soon as they were out of sight, we would find another street to ride on. I'm sure Aunt Nell and my Mom wasn't as happy with us as we were. Scott and I grew up as close as if we were actual brothers and that friendship remained, even after I moved away. Scott would call me in Louisiana sometimes at night just to talk about old times. I will miss his calls and him.

“ I have so many memories of Scott, such a giving man he was. He was always helping others, giving of his time and many talents God blessed him with. Always willing to share what he had. You never knew what amazing project he would make and give to his Mom, he could see such possibilities in everyday items. He was so proud of his family. He and Karen have raised some amazing children, all with so much love, talents they share freely with others, they were taught well. Scott loved his wife Karen, never a doubt he thought she was Beautiful, and proud to be her husband. Scott was blessed with many friends, I think that was due to his giving spirit and willingness to help others. This big loving family of ours will miss Scott more than words can express. We're all Blessed to be loved by him.

“ Scott, my dear friend. I was so lucky to have you as a neighbor and consider you part of my family. A lot of what made that place across 840 from you my favorite place on earth, was you. It's going to be different not hearing you roaring over in your side by side when my dad and I would arrive from Houston. Metal detecting won't be the same with out having my partner looking for that treasure. I'm going to miss you deeply friend. I love you
