“ My family, my friends...That is what I think of when I think of the Odom's. I am so sorry to hear about this and the devastating loss you are going through. The Hare's are praying for all of you.

My mother would pile us up in the station wagon and we would head out for an East Texas Road Trip, her accent thickening on the way. He was such a sweet kid and we always just couldn't wait to get to the Odom's house to hang out with the boys. David and Steve couldn't be sweeter people and that is because they were raised by such kind people. Joyce, William and David and all of Steve's family, know that you are loved by the Hare's!

“ I grew up at the house they bought next to Steve's parents. I would see him pull up every other day or so next to out to tend to Williams cows and such for over 20 years. I was young but most of the time we would talk. He was a serious man when it came to ensuring the farm was kept. I went off in the world and came back a decade later, thinking he would never marry. But he did. And during the past nearly ten years I saw a light open up in Steve I've never seen before. There is no doubt that marrying Angela and having those wonderful kids had truly filled a hole in him that I felt existed before. He surely became such a family man that I only wish I could hold a candle to. We will miss you cuz.
