“ I will really miss Mr. Red, he was a joy to talk to and more than not, listen to. It was hard to get a word in edgewise sometimes. He loved to tell of his old baseball days and he could remember like it was yesterday. His eyes would light up when he spoke of that time. In my mind the only thing he loved more than his family and deer hunting was watching his grandsons play baseball. I am honored to have known him and I feel your loss. It was my gain to have known him.
