“ I miss you so much dad. You've been on my mind a lot lately. I know no one will read any of these, so I want to say some things to you. I have so many regrets and I was too late to tell you how sorry I was and how much you meant to me. I was so angry for so many years and blamed you, I was so wrong. I love you so much dad, I hope you were able to forgive me for being a terrible son. I'm so thankful that you chose to be my dad, despite all of the complications and baggage that came with me. You knew what you were getting into and you still chose me. You made a difference, even if it didn't look like it. You were always my super hero dad. You were 10 foot tall and bulletproof in my eyes. I will forever miss you and forever love you. You are the greatest man I have ever known, despite our differences. I aspired to be like you, but I could never, not too many people can. I'm grateful you were my dad. I love and miss you immensely. I don't know what is in store for me, but I really hope I get to see you again some day.
